

QUANTUM LOOP

Do not machine wash, or get this product wet. Clean using a damp microfibre cloth only.

Conscious Tech is about the interface between our conscious mind (intent) and the Quantum Field. We are constantly connected to the Quantum Field along with our subconscious which specifically allows us to receive and transmit billions of pieces of information throughout the day without needing to focus on a particular task.

How often have we arrived at a destination without remembering the journey in detail?

An essential part of the Orynoco Conscious Tech production includes preparing copper with a super-oxide coating. During this preparation and at post production stage the layers are infused with multiple information fields. Each tiny irregular piece of super-oxide coated copper then has its own qualities and when combined a larger field of accessible information is generated.

Applying our conscious intent to the generated field will produce a response. Setting the intent to re-balance our energetic fields to the most beneficial, optimum effect will connect us with the information fields and so the process is stimulated and initiated, thereby amplifying the effect of the field.

Orynoco has combined the multi-layered superoxide coated copper pieces into a versatile fabric loop that looks similar to a yoga belt.

We call this a Quantum Loop.

Using The Quantum Loop (QL)

Our experiments have shown that the quality of the space inside the shape the loop creates will change as the boundary is redefined.

Circles provide a great space for relaxation and going deep inside oneself. They provoke a very calming response from the user, which can occur in a standing or sitting position. This shape is the most versatile all-rounder. Ideal for post yoga relaxing, meditation, using with children and for taking time out to de-stress at any point during the day. Regular use produces response times varying from a few minutes or less, allowing the user to continue and increase the intensity over anything from 5 to 60 minutes.

Squares and rectangles provoke a very grounding effect in the electrical energy of the body. Ideal for use when completing Chi Kung or similar single position energy and physical workouts.

Triangles produce a much more energetic field for working with stronger energetic and physical stances or shaking.

The Quantum Loop can also be used to focus information fields on a particular point of the body such as a knee or elbow injury. Our experiences show the Loop re-balances the natural energetic fields allowing the body to use additional, supportive information. This is not always an instant process but rather one that needs application and intent. The stronger the focus the quicker the balancing. Many people have used the Loop on problem areas overnight with great effect.

Wrap It around any part of your body and wear it during the day or night. The irregular spacings between the encased pieces of copper will create a dynamic field flow which will activate movement of energy within the body.

Animals and pets respond very well to the Quantum Loop. They can access the information fields easily without any mental resistance. The Loop can be used to wrap round an injured area or placed in a circle around them.

The conscious intent expressed by the user is far more powerful than we can imagine. Use your intuition and creativity with the Loop it is an incredibly versatile tool that you can travel with and use anywhere.
