The Wholeness Support Unit was received as my wife and I were recovering from bouts of Covid, mine was mild and my wife's more debilitating.

Martyn session 1
3:30pm 14/8/2.
duration about 30 mins

Initial state
tired after gardening tightness in chest.

Initially thick bright energy around head, noticing the tinnitus more. Slowly the focus descended through throat, chest where I noticed an increased openness and ability to breathe, upper abdomen before focus lost. This took about 8 minutes. A sense of being "combed". After about 15 minutes I experienced a moment of discomfort before crown tingled lightly for under minute. Beyond that no strong sensation noticed. I dropped off twice in the second half.

Following, still some tightness in chest. An awareness of being churned up a bit. more sense of light and openness in top half of body.
1 hour later. feeling quite zapped.

MOVED plasma pods to home location on a ley-line about 5m from my bed on the floor above.
very disturbed sleep

Followed by more head activity and noticing tinnitus again.

In conjunction with coming out of Covid and doing other work that relates to this journey, it s my impression that using the WSU has helped calm and clarify the energy although I have yet to come to terms with the weight that I associate with it in the house.

Following installation on the ley-line, the house had the impression of being cooked - or rather thick energy. Once we had moved it out to help friends suffering from Covid the energy was lighter and easier to negotiate. It may be that if we choose to install long-term that a seperate space away from the living spaces will need to be found.

We also have another technology (Lighttower) that is also working on energy in the same area. This has historically been effective at producing greater clarity and focus especially in his electro-smog.

As this is the second feedback, this is a continuation of our experimentation with the unit. However, for most of the last two weeks, the unit has been with Covid sufferers, one in particular. During his affliction, he indicated that he felt the unit was of benefit and so it was left there. I have requested more detailed feedback from him however have not received any as of yet.

Upon re-installation of the unit at home, my wife and I noted that the energy was not as intense as it had been previously. We both felt that the process was not as dramatic and found we needed to be more precise about sitting slightly forward of centre. The overall energy in the house does not feel as "cooked" as previously.

9/9/21 25-minute session.

I experienced a (muted) scan from head to abdomen then after about 18 minutes energy and physical sensations around my crown. I had a greater awareness of chakra energetic structures.

10/9/21 30-minute session.

I experienced a similar scan from head to abdomen then little change. After about 22 minutes, it occurred to me to sit diagonally within the unit so that the bulbs were in front, behind and to my sides. I immediately felt increased pressure at my third-eye and then at my temples. More was then noticed around abdomen before returning back to around head. Sensations remained in this area until the end of the session when it felt there was little more developing.

My wife reports the following from her experience:

Session4

20 minutes

In the beginning, I didn't feel the strong energy that I felt for the first 3 sessions.

When I adjusted the chair position, I felt more energy. (we lent the unit to friends, so probably the energy of the unit needed some time to settle back?)

Felt the energy at the left side of my eye. (I see with my left eye much more than with right eye.)

Session5

20 minutes

I felt the energy going through the upper body. saw beautiful blue waves of light.

session6

20 minutes

I felt the energy going through in my right shoulder, arm, and hand.

I saw a vision of pyramid and white dragon, which was very interesting.

Goals of wellbeing seemed supported by the unit.

I do feel a sense of wellness perhaps better than normal. There appears to be a general smoothing of mental and physical "bumps".
